Dear News Media Professional,

Healthcare continues to dominate the news, whether it’s insuring the uninsured, the Affordable Care Act or the future of community-based hospitals.

In a time of consolidation, it is clear, community-based hospitals serve as the heart of many rural communities across the United States, stimulating the local economy through jobs, access to quality healthcare and an influx of medical expertise.

“We believe that hospitals best serve the people when they meet the needs of a local population. Our mission is to guide, support and enhance the mission of community hospitals and healthcare providers, thereby strengthening the communities they serve,” said CHC President and CEO Michael D. Williams.

Community Hospital Corporation (CHC) provides flexible, individualized consulting and turnaround services, along with ownership and management models as needed. The work CHC does for community hospitals across the country gives CHC’s leadership team a unique understanding of the challenges these hospitals face.

CHC leaders are available to serve as subject matter experts for your healthcare stories. Also, let us know if our story concepts interest you, or how we can assist as you develop breaking news.

Keeping the H in Hometown®

Community Hospital Corporation (CHC) understands that community-based hospitals are vital assets to those they serve. That’s why we provide resources to strengthen and support community-based hospitals, including flexible, individualized consulting services along with ownership and management models when it makes sense.

Together with hospital boards and leaders, CHC establishes a strategic vision for the future, paves the way to operational and financial improvement, and masters tricky regulatory compliance.

HELP WHERE HOSPITALS NEED IT®
Hospitals turn to CHC with confidence because of our unwavering commitment to help preserve and protect community hospitals in the least obtrusive way and as part of a collaborative process. CHC’s expertise in healthcare and focus on community-based hospitals uniquely qualify us to develop custom-fit solutions to ensure hospitals remain locally operated and governed.

GUIDANCE AT EVERY TURN
Community Hospital Corporation owns, manages and consults with hospitals through three distinct organizations – CHC Hospitals, CHC Consulting and CHC ContinueCARE, which share a common purpose to guide, support and enhance the mission of community hospitals and healthcare providers. Based in Plano, Texas, CHC provides the resources and experience community hospitals need to improve quality outcomes, patient satisfaction and financial performance.

A PATH TO FUTURE SUCCESS

CHC Consulting provides management and consulting services and solutions tailored for community-based hospitals. Many clients who engage us begin with our comprehensive operational assessment, which evaluates the hospital’s finances, leadership, staffing, supply chain and revenue cycle, among other factors. This analysis identifies organizational strengths and vulnerabilities along with an action plan to get the hospital on track for future success.

Before CHC came on board, we didn’t have the infrastructure or insight we needed to improve the hospital’s performance. Today, there is such a tremendous energy around here.

If you’re a standalone hospital in a rural community, you need to take a look at CHC. They deal with the particulars of smaller hospitals. Aside from CHC, the expertise is simply not out there when it comes to the operations of a smaller hospital.

It’s been a team effort between Trinity Mother Frances, CHC and ContinueCARE. We all have a common goal to create the right patient care environment to help patients get well.

You can count on CHC to provide strategic direction for the road ahead. Our experienced team offers a broad platform of services to overcome obstacles like budget shortfalls and compliance challenges, and chart the way to smoother terrain. It’s a journey, but it’s not about getting somewhere. It’s about empowering your hospital to stay rooted where it belongs.

In his role, Tony Ybarra manages initiatives to develop and implement comprehensive supply chain management strategies on a company-wide basis and ensures that quality-based initiatives are implemented in order to gain the greatest value from CHC’s supply expenditures and resource utilization. He provides services to owned, managed and consulting clients in the area of supply chain.
1. How can an LTACH be successful in our community?

Long-term acute care hospitals (LTACHs) offer specialized healthcare services for patients with complex conditions while reducing the cost of lengthy hospital stays in acute care environments. With this in mind, hospitals are taking a closer look at the market demand for LTACH services and how to create LTACH success in their communities. Learn about Community Hospital Corporation's work to improve LTACH performance and create joint ventures such as Tyler ContinueCARE.

2. Is the independent hospital a relic?

Hospital executives face unprecedented challenges. An uncertain economic environment and limited access to capital make it more difficult than ever for community hospital executives to run a medical facility that delivers high-quality care cost effectively. They are asking themselves if they need to affiliate or stand alone. Many leaders and hospital boards are seeking options to maintain independence and financial viability. CHC works with community hospitals across the United States to analyze options for community hospital success into the future.

3. How can hospital boards guide independence?

Healthcare system consolidation continues to be one way for smaller hospitals to survive, but is it the only choice? Hospital board members are asking if they should affiliate with other healthcare organizations. CHC educates hospital boards about the most appropriate ways to assess a hospital’s performance in terms of operations productivity, revenue, supply chain, clinical quality analysis and IT. Find out how CHC guides hospitals and their boards toward an advantageous position, and some creative approaches to maintain independence.
4. Big Data: Big Opportunity or Big Mess?

Big data is on the rise. Hospitals and health systems collect plenty of data on patients daily. Electronic patient records and other government mandates have exponentially increased electronic health data. With all this data, how can it best be mined and leveraged as an asset? CHC understands how to transform the data into critical information that can help improve patient care, support the bottom line and increase efficiencies.

5. Physician Alignment

Hospital-physician alignment is a top priority for hospital executives. However, the process of physician integration is teeming with challenges – from incompatible IT systems to adapting operations to support the various models. The benefits are worth the investment for a variety of reasons including, developing best practices, improving quality of healthcare, encouraging consolidation of medical records, and improving physician retention. Learn how CHC helps community hospitals develop and implement physician alignment initiatives.

6. Operational Assessment

Hospitals have more data than ever available to them. How do hospitals transform that data into powerful information about operational efficiency and financial performance? And how will this information impact the future plans of the hospital executives and board? CHC conducts operational assessments for community hospitals in order to find efficiencies and inefficiencies, recommend improvement initiatives and help implement a plan of action.
7. How will the Affordable Care Act (ACA) financially impact hometown healthcare?

Regulations are continuing to change the way healthcare is delivered and reimbursed. The ACA and the driving forces behind it pose challenges to community hospitals in particular. Many community-based hospitals serve a disproportionate amount of Medicare and Medicaid patients and, therefore, may suffer more from reduced reimbursement levels. On top of that, many smaller community hospitals may not be optimizing supplier and managed care relationships. To address these and other issues, community-based hospitals must optimize internal operations. Learn CHC’s track record of helping hometown hospitals improve financial and operational performance for future viability.
